

MESSAGE FROM THE TOWN MANAGER

Surfside's Home-grown Youth Impress as Scholars and Leaders

Two stories in this month's Gazette recognize the high level of young scholars we have in Surfside. Congratulations to two young women born and raised in Surfside, both recent graduates of Miami Beach High School, who received the 2017 Town of Surfside Higher Education Scholarships (see below).

Here are just a few achievements of recipient Simone D'Antuono: she served as President of the National Council of Jewish Women Teens Chapter in Miami and organized a charity fashion show to raise money for families in distress. At Miami Beach High School, she served as the Vice President of her class, the President of the National Honor society and helped to create the Let Her Shine project to connect and empower teen girls.

Recipient Nicole Goetz was a four-year starter and captain for the Miami Beach girls volleyball team. She worked as a baby sitter and served as a tutor and volunteer for various groups. She plans on being an engineer.

On page 3, Surfside Jake Rubin was named the Town's Exemplary Student. A standout for several years, Jake is soon to start high school and is working to receive his rank of Eagle Scout. All of Surfside can be proud of the local programs and quality schools that nurture the outstanding youth in our Town.

- Guillermo Olmedillo, Town Manager

Surfside Families Receive Town Scholarships

Surfside presented its 2017 Higher Education Scholarships at the July 11 Commission meeting. Nicole Goetz and Simone D'Antuono both of whom grew up in Surfside and have been involved in the community in addition to maintaining their excellent academic records. Both have already enrolled in the University of Florida, so their parents proudly accepted the $1,000 scholarship awards for their daughters.

FIRST FRIDAYS!

A Day at the Beach!

Hundreds of residents and visitors showed their patriotic spirit as they celebrated an afternoon at the Surfside beach near 93rd Street for the July First Friday. With an Americana theme, the event included music, food, giveaways, games and activities for children and adults.

Join the Bollywood Fun at First Friday in August

If you missed the July First Friday, plan on attending an Indian-inspired celebration on Friday August 4 at the 93rd Street beach. Join in the fun that will include music, drum circle, henna tattoos, healthy bites, oversized floaties, kids activities and dancers. The event is for Surfside residents and visitors. Bring your own picnic and beach gear.

FOOD & TRAVEL SITE RECOGNIZES SURFSIDE

The popular website Tasting Table picked Surfside among the nation's 12 best small coastal towns that are perfect destinations for summer eating and visiting. The story focused on the charm of Surfside for biking or strolling leisurely on the sand. Other towns listed included Carmel, California and Camden, Maine. For Surfside they wrote: "This small community is just north of Miami that has all the Art Deco and historic appeal of the major city to the south. Hang with locals at First Fridays, a town-wide picnic where everyone takes to the sand. Head to the popular Josh's Deli, a Jewish-style spot offering innovative takes on traditional fare, like duck-fat matzo balls and crunchy tuna latkes."

CODE COMPLIANCE CORNER

Just Say No to Leaf Blowers

Continuous noise of 85 decibels or higher can cause permanent hearing loss. A typical gasoline-powered, two-stroke leaf blower produces 90-102 decibels of sound. Because leaf blowers are loud enough to cause hearing deficits and loss, the Town of Surfside does not allow their use under multiple sections of the Town Code. In addition to the loud noise they generate, leaf blowers blast away topsoil, microbial life forms, animal waste, herbicides, pesticides and even heavy metals, such as arsenic, mercury and lead. Leaf blower pollutants are dangerous enough that the American Lung Association recommends that all individuals avoid them.

The use of leaf blowers to dispose of grass cuttings and leaf trimmings usually leads to debris in our road gutters and stormwater drainage system. Under Chapter 34 of the Town Code, it is unlawful to deposit any debris into the town's drainage system. Under Chapter 66, it is unlawful to sweep any trash or debris into the streets, sidewalks or gutter, and the use of leaf blowers is "absolutely prohibited."

Under the Town's Noise Ordinance, certain noises, such as loud and continuous leaf blowers, are prohibited at all times and places within the Town. Any noise that is loud and excessive or continuous in nature will constitute a violation of the Noise Ordinance. The civil penalty for this type of noise violation is currently $100 per incident, and the fine will be assessed to the property owner where the violation occurs.

Property owners should inform lawn care professionals to stop using leaf blowers. They should use rakes and brooms to gather grass cuttings and leaf trimmings.

For more information, call the Code Compliance Office at (305) 861-4863.

After Selling 10 Million Albums Over 40 years, Maria Martha Serra Lima is Still Singing

Maria Martha Serra Lima, a resident of Surfside for 35 years, may be one of the Town's best kept secrets. She is famous throughout the Spanish-speaking world for her romantic vocal style and her many best-selling albums of love ballads and boleros. "God gave me a gift and I have had the opportunity to share my gift with many millions of people," Maria Martha said.

Born into a prominent Buenos Aires family, Maria Martha almost missed her opportunity to be a famous singer. Her father, who owned the first Ford dealership in Argentina, also had an excellent baritone voice and had studied opera in Italy. But he only sang as a hobby and did not want his young daughter to pursue a singing career. Not wanting to upset her father, she focused on school, learning five languages. As a young adult, she married and had two children. She stayed close to music by teaching lessons to private pupils.

She was in her mid-thirties when her father passed away. A friend finally convinced Maria Martha that it was time to pursue a singing career. "To try and start a career at that age was simply unheard of," she said.

She began singing in nightclubs and audiences responded to her powerful contralto voice. Soon she was working with well-known composers and orchestras. She signed her first recording contract at age 37.

"It was amazing," she said. "I was so fortunate to have success right away." In addition to Argentina, her albums became hits in Spain, Mexico, Colombia and Puerto Rico. She also began collaborating with other artists and began touring throughout Latin America and the U.S. In the audience at one of her concerts was the American music executive and agent Herbert Bresslin. Bresslin, who was well known for guiding the career of Luciano Pavarotti, recognized the quality of Maria Martha's velvet singing voice and began handling her tours.

"Mr. Bresslin had a great impact on my career," she said. "He believed I could be popular in America. Our first performance in New York was at Carnegie Hall and it sold out. The same with Lincoln Center, Los Angeles and Miami." Over the years, Maria Martha earned so many gold and platinum albums, she has started to give them away during her concerts. "I have no place to put them and my fans are delighted to have them!"

Soon after her career took off in the early 1980s, Maria Martha began looking for a second home. After searching in many countries, she selected Surfside. "I had to be next to the ocean and Surfside was perfect for me and my family. After 35 years, I still love it here."

After four decades of recording and touring, Maria Martha is still performing to a large and appreciative audience. She will soon be back on stage with the Puerto Rican bandleader and singer Gilberto Santa Rosa, known as El Caballero de la Salsa or the Gentleman of Salsa. In a few words, Maria Martha Serra Lima encompasses a fulfilling lifetime of success: "I just love to sing."
